Australia's Oldest Man Knits Tiny Sweaters For Penguins Injured In Oil Spills

By Ryan Grenoble

When disaster strikes, the wildlife clinic at the Phillip Island Nature Park will be ready, equipped to deploy hundreds of tiny wool sweaters at a moment's notice.

Not tiny sweaters for people, but penguins — knit by a group of volunteers that includes Alfred "Alfie" Date, who at 109 years of age is Australia's oldest man.

Date smiles with a tiny wool sweater he knit for a penguin.

What has the USA done to our Tim Tams??

Martina Sharp | March 26, 2015

US residents can now purchase our delicious Tim Tams in their stores, but why have they changed them?
