FSCI 2018

LEARN HOW TO NAVIGATE THE NEW WORLD OF SCHOLARLY COMMUNICATION

A WEEK-LONG SUMMER TRAINING PROGRAM

July 30 - August 3, 2017

UC SAN DIEGO • LA JOLLA, CA USA

Scholarly Communication is in the midst of a system-wide disruption. There are new forms of publications, standards, and expectations, with multiple ways of measuring and demonstrating success.

FSCI is a 5-day intensive summer training institute designed to empower researchers, administrators, librarians, students and others to navigate the new world of Scholarly Communication.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

Anyone affected by recent changes in Scholarly Communications Researchers • Funders • University Administrators • Publishers • Librarians • Students

COURSES

Schol Comm 101 • Open Authoring Tool • Collaboration in the Scholarly Commons • Open Scholarly Communication • Information-Rich Research Institution • Data Life Cycle • Open Education • Research Reproducibility • Research Paper to Lay Summary • Open South • Peer Reviews • Questionable Publishing Practices • Open Data Viz • Public Humanities • Wikidata Workflows • Open Access Cost • Reproducible Code and Data • Opening the Research Enterprise • Wikidata with Educational Workflows • Best Practices in Fair and Open Evaluation • Implementing Software Citation • Open Scholars: Approaches, Tools & Tactics • Publishing Big Data

www.force11.org/fsci/2018

UC San Diego

FORCE11